

David Wiget

EVOC 518 – Winter 2006

PERSONAL DATA SHEET

Contact Address:

1161 E. Covina Blvd.
Covina, CA 91724

Telephone & E-mail:

Phone: (626)- 966-1632

eMail: onearmred@msn.com

Web: <http://www.geocities.com/reddogy99/>

Present Job:

TEACHER-ADULT EDUCATION – CDC PROJECT (Substance Abuse Education): California Department of Corrections, Ontario Parole Office.-I implement the Contra Costa County Office of Education (CCOE) approved curriculum, assess student community transition needs, utilize a variety of instructional modalities, identify student performance outcomes, evaluate student performance, maintain student records via the computerized Student Information Database, ensure completion of daily attendance, provide data as required by Department of Corrections Research division, assure security of equipment, maintain positive classroom climate in accordance with established safety and security procedures, maintain satisfactory work habits, including attendance, punctuality, and promptness in submitting records and reports, work cooperatively with project staff and parole and custody staff in developing a team approach to program, provide positive role model for students, maintain current resource information of community resources, attend meetings and trainings as required, ; and perform other related duties as assigned.

Previous Jobs:

Certified Addictions Treatment Specialist: I have work in this capacity for over eight years at a few different treatment centers in the greater Los Angeles area.

Veterinarian assistant: West Covina, CA.

Radiator repair man: Lancaster, CA.

Cooks assistant: Mojave, CA

Professional Education:

I have an A.S. degree in Alcohol/Drug Counseling: Mt. San Antonio College—Walnut, CA; a Certified Alcoholand Drug Counselor-II (CADC-II); a Certified Addictions Treatment Specialist (C.A.T.S.); a Certified Anger Management Counselor; and a Certified Nurses Assistant (C.N.A.)

Talents/Interests:

Table tennis, web surfing, concerts, cardio exercising, and thrill seeking.

For EVOC 518:

I am currently officially enrolled in EVOC 518, have reviewed all the materials in the EVOC 518 E-TEXT and will collect all of the EVOC 518 assignments into a portfolio which I will post on my web site not later than July 4, 2005. I understand that Portfolios may not be returned and will keep copies of all of the materials in the portfolio I produce.

School Address: Site address: 1511 E. Holt Avenue, Ontario, CA 91761, (909) 983-0692 Ext.234

District office: 77 Santa Barbara Rd., Pleasant Hill, CA 94523, 925.942.3388/

School Website: <http://www.cccoe.k12.ca.us/index.html>

About the School:

The Contra Costa County Office of Education has extensively expanded its services throughout the past 150 years. The Office has grown from a small group overseeing a handful of schools to an all-encompassing organization responsible for maintaining the highest educational quality of various programs, schools, districts and sites. (I teach out of the Ontario Parole office site.) The 1980s were an especially busy time at the County Office. By 1980, ROP had been in existence for seven years, and CCCOE was rapidly adding new programs such as the State WorkAbility Program.

One hundred fifty years ago, Contra Costa's educational system consisted of one superintendent, 25 students and two teachers. Now, more than 160,000 students and 8,000 teachers are spread throughout 18 districts, each with an elected local governing board, and its own district superintendent. Supporting them all is the County Superintendent of Schools and 700 COE educators and support staff. This dedicated team provides a multitude of services including: special and alternative education, supplemental programs, budgetary oversight, technical assistance and Internet access. An integral part of the county's educational system, the County Office of Education is well positioned to handle the challenges of the future.

The Parole and Community Services Division of the California Department of Corrections has collaborated with the Contra Costa County Office of Education to develop educational programs designed to reduce the number of parolees returning to prison. Classes are conducted at parole offices throughout the state.

The STAR (Substance Abuse Treatment and Recovery) program is a curriculum-based educational program designed to motivate substance abusers to participate in post-release recovery activities. New skills are presented which help individuals understand the relapse process and prepare for smooth, drug free community transition.

