RUBY- Rural Urban Yoke Bondage

HIRA- Help India Rural Agriculturists

At present we have RUBY type of relation between our rural and urban population in our Bharat. Urban people like the yoke type of relation with rural people and who does not like bondage, only who is under bondage. It is very difficult for rural people to come out of this yoke unless they put a long fight with urban people. My aim to write this article is not to create friction between urban and rural population, but just draw the attention to the problem, which exist now, and we certainly help to eradicate once we realized its importance.

Now let us see HIRA- Help Indian Rural Agriculturists. How by simply paying them fair market value of their produce. Take a pledge that whatever we take from them we will pay fair market value and never take advantage of our rural brothers by not taking any thing from them free of charge. I will state a simple observation, which I am witnessing for last six decades. Whenever villagers bring sugarcane to sugar factory in any way lorry / truck / oxcart etc to city for selling people will snatch sugarcane from them without paying any to them it is simply stealing. This way poor farmers loose at least 1/10 of their produce this way. We wish to eat sugar cane we certainly can buy them by paying fair price to farmers. These poor farmers are meek and no body will be there in city to help them. Can we locate these sugar mills away from city will be one solution or as stated above pay fair price for their produce. Thanks for reading the article and remember to use this hint whenever you have chance to act.

See what is now PANNA- Progressive Agriculturist National Network of Achievers

After traveling to some 360 villages in 18 states of Bharat we learnt that there are many Farmers who are big achievers but not many of us knows about it from one state to other hence we can't duplicate their feat. Where as these success stories should be duplicated, recorded, distributed to everywhere in Bharat. All of us know that we can't increase the land area but only yield can be increased. I will state the one real true story, which I witnessed in India. This lowly educated farmer made his house of concrete leak proof roof and put some three feet of soil on top it and started doing producing various crops of vegetable and cereals on his roof. There is one farmer in Orissa who produces 100 quintal of rice paddy per acre using only green postures. Third one in Rajasthan who produced grass in wasteland, which can be used by milk yielding animals. These three are not the only real success stories you may be knowing more such stories, what we need to do is to collect all such stories and publish them with the help of (KVK) Krishi Vikas Kendra which are existing through out the land with help of Various Agricultural Research Institutions or National Agricultural Research Council. While we were traveling some one posed a Question to us in Delhi do we have home made pesticide we did not have the answer but late some one in West Bengal showed how to make them indigenously. We got both of them connected to each other.
