

Alacrity In Sinking

You'll Laugh, You'll Cry, You'll Vomit.

Bobby Fiore has issues. Women want him, men adore him, and the voices in his head want control of his body. To save himself--and the fantasy world he's created--all it will take is a single act of love. Unfortunately, as Bobby soon discovers, Love takes many forms; Most of them completely disgusting.

Rapidly shifting between excessively brutal, heartbreakingly tender, laugh-out-loud funny, and utterly disturbing; This novel is as schizophrenic and inexplicably lovable as the main character himself.

"I started it last night and couldn't put it down. Now its five a.m. and I'm completely hyper! Brilliant! Burroughs, Thompson, et al...There's a new boy on the block."

--Nicholas McDonald, Author

"I read it in one sitting and absolutely loved it! Now that I'm done I feel like I need a shower and a can of Raid, but I want to read it again."

--Dorene Zarth, Comedy Writer & Editor

Alacrity In Sinking

by DJ Burnett

Coming Soon

From Raw Dog Screaming Press

Killing Melissa

The Life You Take

May Be Your Own.

Meet Dennis Kant ('D' to his friends), World's Biggest Loser. Having made peace with the emptiness of life, he spends his days working, drinking, and watching reruns on TV. Until the night his childhood friend Kyle Kinsey bursts back into his life; appearing broken and weeping at his doorstep. D's world slips out of control as he watches the slow self-destruction of his friend. Recognizing Kinsey's estranged wife as the cancer that eats at his entire existence, D decides on the only course of action that's left-- He must kill Melissa.

The story of two men's journey through the nightmare landscapes of loss and redemption, and the love they find along the way; This novel pulls you inside a living breathing world filled with living breathing people that you'll grow to care about deeply. A thrilling ride, from its dark and methodical beginning all the way to the fever-pitched, bittersweet end.

Killing Melissa

by DJ Burnett

Available Soon
At Bookstores Everywhere