

TOBY GAERIN, son of Snowchasers member CARMEN GAERIN, is participating in a Triathlon to raise money for the Challenged Athletes Foundation (CAF).

CAF is a non-profit organization that provides funding and inspiration to hundreds of physically challenged athletes each year so they can participate, compete and live life to the fullest.

High tech running prosthetics are very expensive. Learning to swim when you lack a limb (or limbs) requires special coaching, and hand-cycles can cost upwards of $2,500. As you know, handicap skiers also need special equipment and training. With our help, challenged athletes can bridge the financial gap and overcome funding obstacles blocking their path to athletic achievement.

You can make a donation through Toby's web site link below. Join him in making dreams come true for challenged athletes. Give the gift of sports and help get challenged athletes off the sidelines, and into the game.
