

Theo k
3/27/18
7/8th

Twitter

Sir_director

Just about to start my new film! Any advice?
@pro_direct_tor_

Pro_Direct_tor_

Have you thought of or gotten a good story?

Sir_director

Well. Not yet...

Pro_

A good story is what will amaze people and make them love your movie.

Sir_

Ok. I think I've got a good story in mind. I'll tell you later. Are there any other tips or tricks that you could tell me?

Pro_

Well if you need help finding crew members and actors, you could either ask people you meet at film school or you could see if anybody you know has a friend or if they themselves will be willing to help you.

Sir_

What should I do if none of those options are going to work?

Pro_

You can always put an ad in a newspaper or if you have some more money you could hire another director that will hire your crew for you.

Sir_

Thank you. Now what should I do to make my movie look cool?

Pro_

Camera Angles. Using a variety of camera angles is key. You want to move the angles often but not too often because this will make it hard for the audience to keep up. You do need to change them enough so then you keep them entertained and into the movie.

Sir_

What do you think I should start out?

Pro_

Well I believe that you should start/continue making short about 5-15 min films and if you think they are good submit them into film festivals. Film festivals is key on getting noticed by the major movie companies.