

The Many Adventures

of

Em

and

B

One day, Em and B were walking through the city.
B was carrying her broom.

Suddenly, Em noticed that there was a bird on the sidewalk she pointed it out to B.

B said that she would take care of it and bashed it over the head with her broom. The bird died. Thank goodness. So they went on their way.

they got bored with the city so B decided to sweep them into the center of the earth. Em used her flashlight.

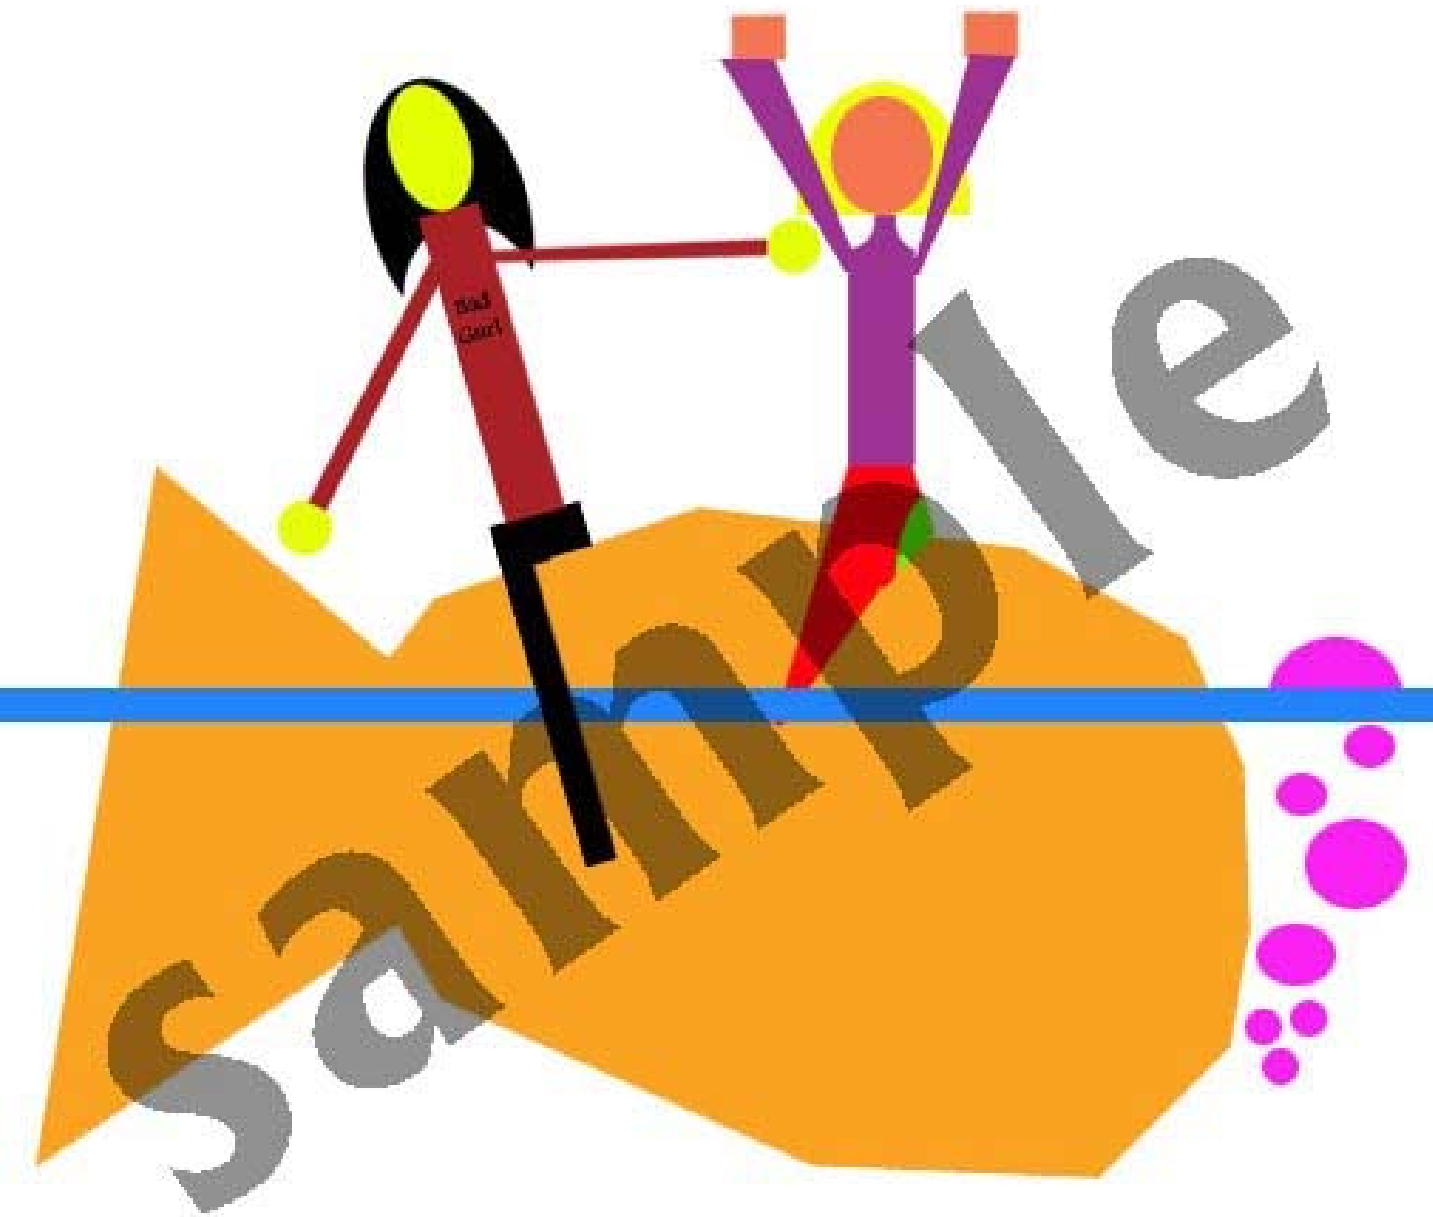

Once they got to the center of the earth they realized it was was hot and there was a lot of fire. they even met a demon.

The two girls said a magically unprintable phrase. the demon was turned really small and they put it in a vial. then they capped it.

After disposing of the demon, the two girls found a puddle near some rocks. they threw sticks in the water and disturbed the fish.

One of the fish was reall big and breathed purple bubbles. They rode it to a land called Creotene.

Parade Today!
cheer for the cup.

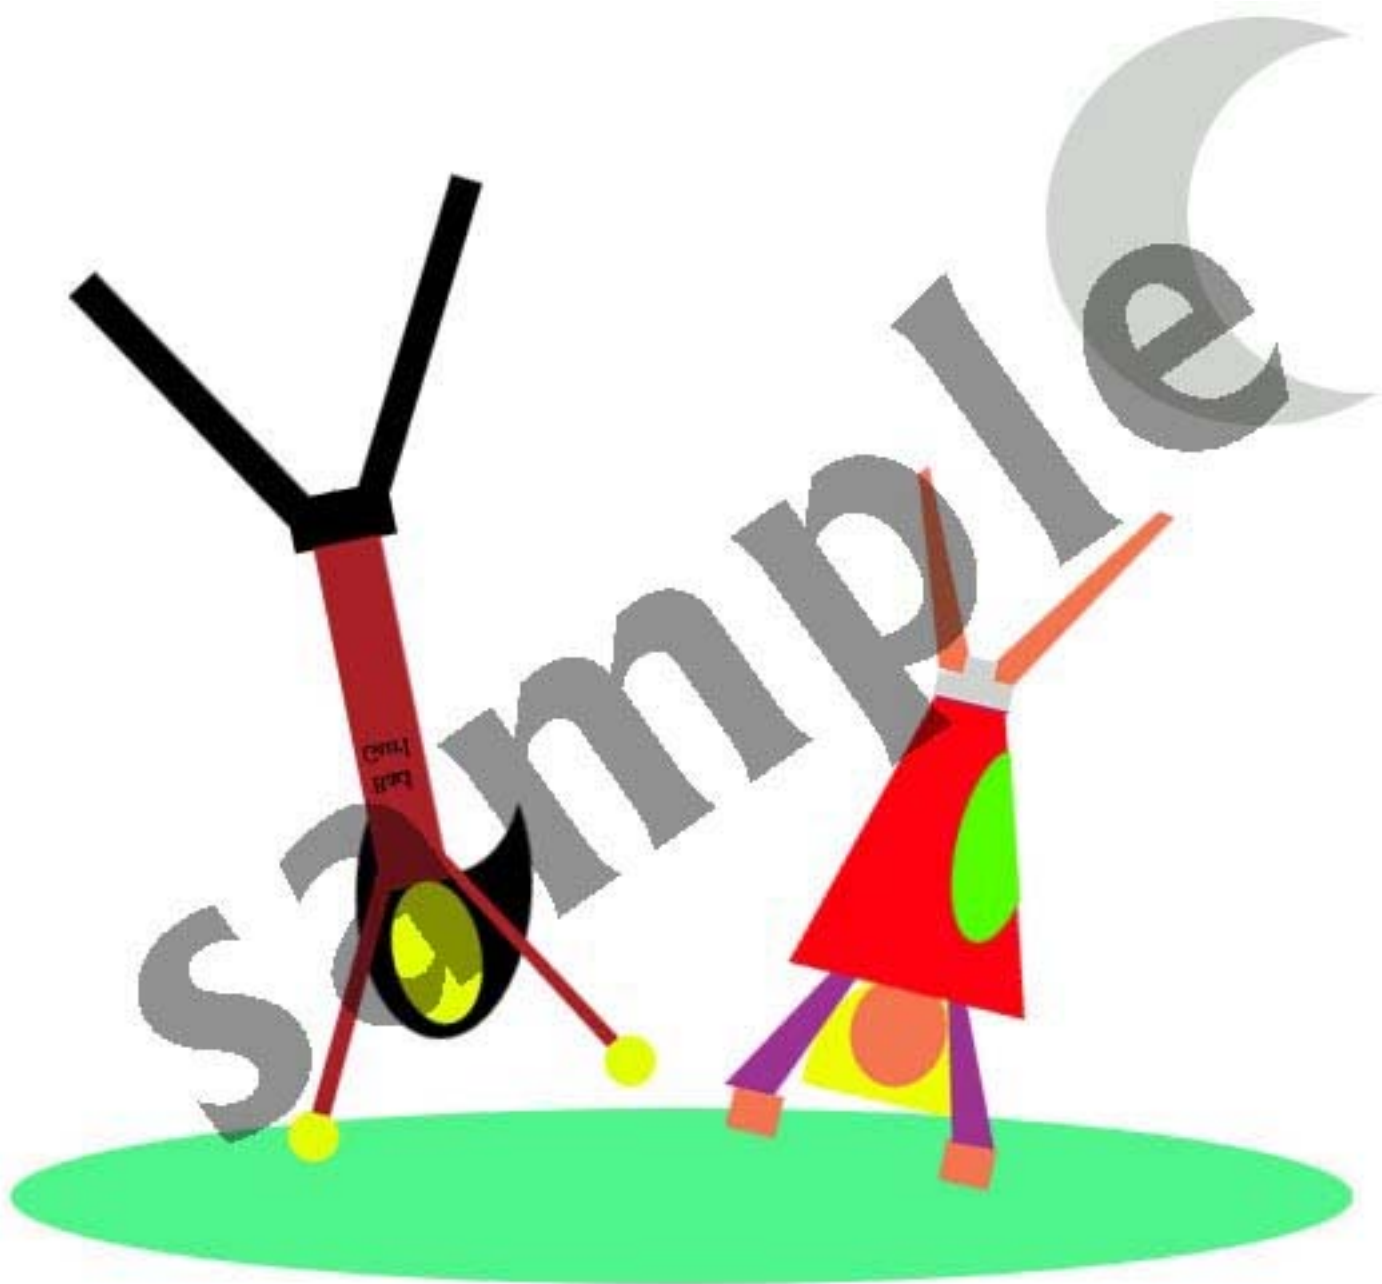

Creotene
next four exits

When they got to Creotene there was a big parade. it wasnt for them. it was for a styrafoam cup. the cup was king of Creotene. the girls were in awe of Creotene. The king took their picture for a souvenir.

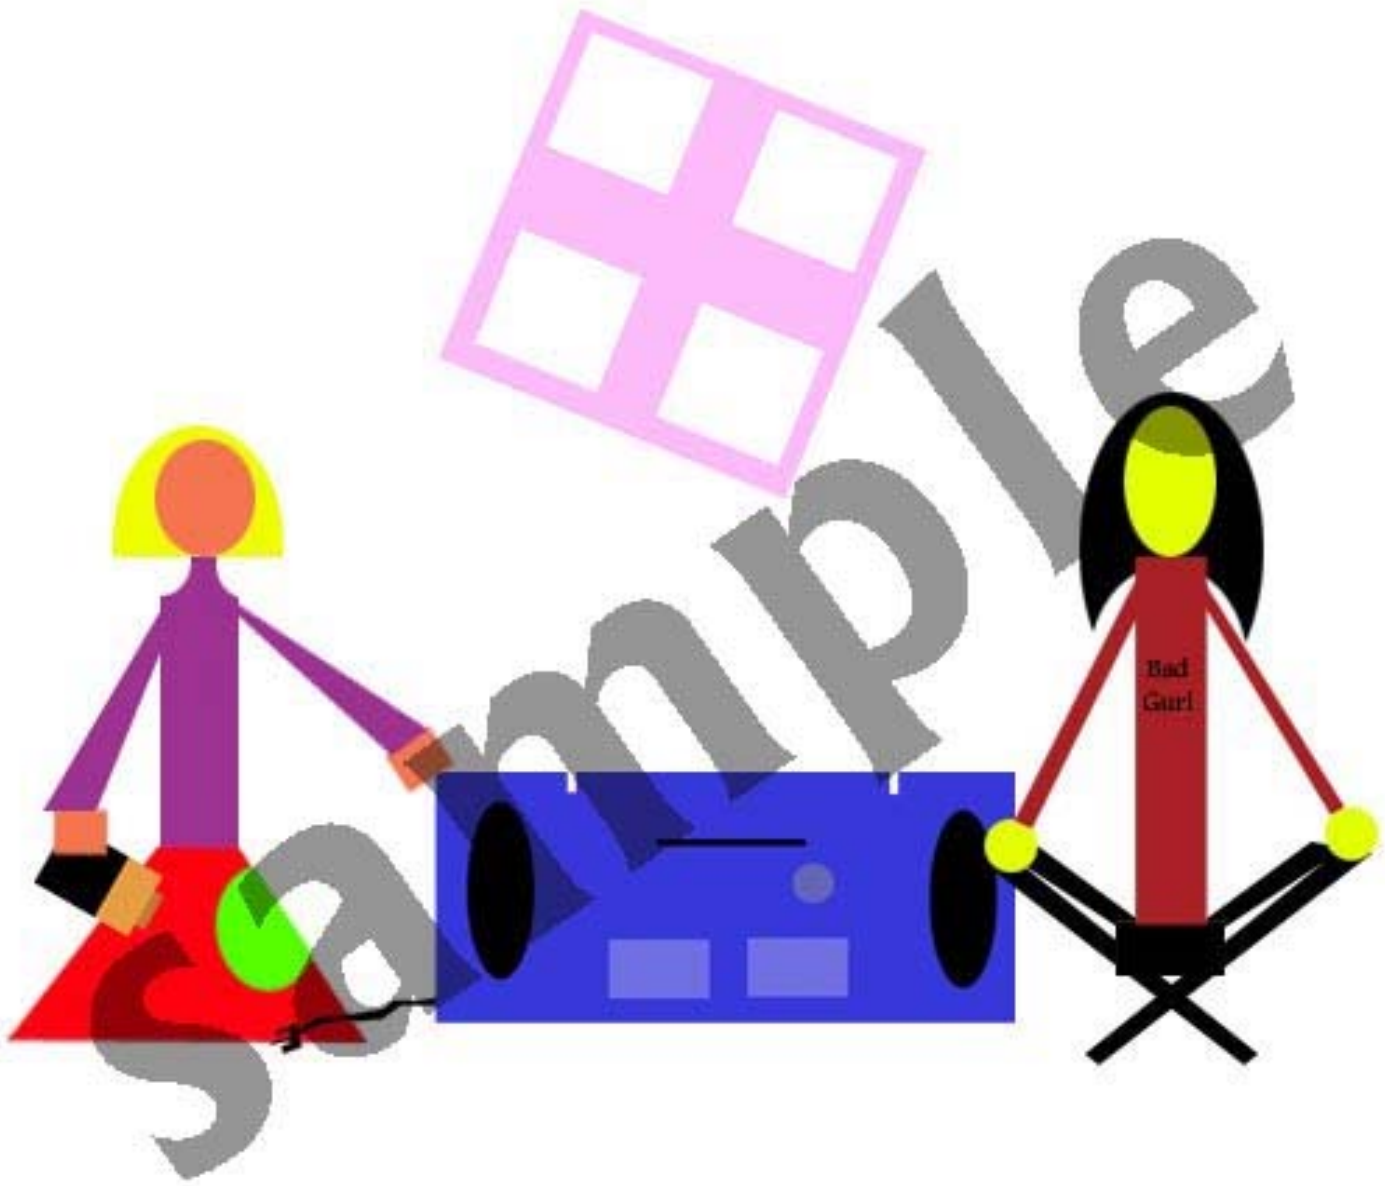

Suddenly, it was late thursday night. the two girls huddled around the kitchen table and made s'mores. B's tasted like shoe. the dog was really small.

Midnight Cartwheel Time!!!

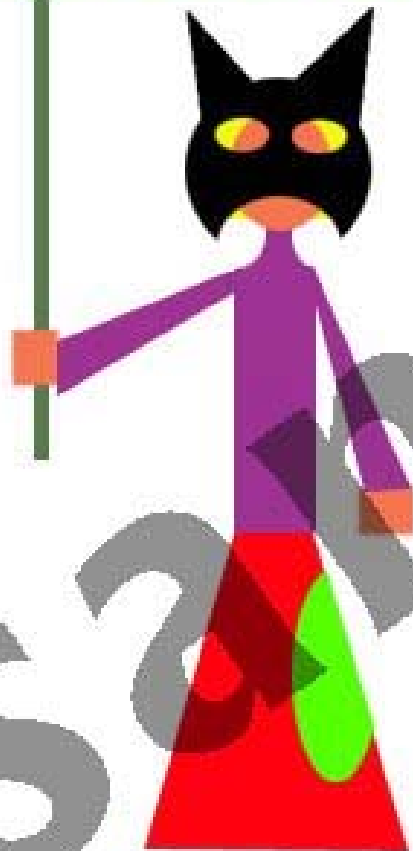

Since there were no yearbooks to sign, they signed each others legs with permanent markers. B drew a smiley face and a B. Em just wrote “Em” and charged B five dollars for her signature.

Em and B decided to play some music and dance. but all they could find was a stereo and one battery. so they held the battery and stared at the stereo. it was blue.

Los Gatos Locos

luchar de mexicano

Em and B decided to play “wrestler” and they dressed in their favorite Luchadore mask. but they both ended up wearing the same one: El Gato Negro!

After renting a plane, B decided to teach Em how to skywrite. she said it was really easy. Em stood up on the plane cause there was no “be seated” sign.

Look! space! and really cheesy spacesuits! oh wait, its only a movie set. that stinks like bad cheese.

What a long day. well, thats all for now from Em and B. but this is certainly not the end of their amazing adventures. they sleep with their heads in a milk carton.