

Hamburg judgment:

(Properly in the Federal Republic of Germany)

With the judgment of the 12. May 1998 decided the country-court Hamburg that one through the install a left the contents of the links on internet side being jointly responsible had or has.

This, according to the country-court Hamburg, can be prevented only by it that one dissociates oneself expressly from these contents.

We put on these sides left to other sides in the internet. For all these left is valid expressly, that we had no influence at the formation and the contents of the link sides or have.

Therefore we dissociate hereby expressly from all contents of all links sides on our web pages and don't make us these to own contents. This explanation is from-shown on our web pages applicable to all left and for all contents of the sides, to which the banners announced with us and left leads.
